Colonel Vilas has made public the fact that he is sick he knows nothing of it.

Senator John Sherman has begun the campaign in Ohio, and is having enthusiastic republican meetings.

Judge Tourgee's last lecture is entitled "Give us a rest." It is a very appropriate name for the lecture.

One of the leading features of the coming state fair will be that no gamblers will be allowed to rob or offend visitors.

Sometimes a man will find a bigger thing than he can handle. That is the case with Secretary Bayard in discovering Kelley.

The republicans of Iowa nominated a strong ticket and adopted a good platform. This is why the democrats do not like either.

While Postmaster General Vilas is fishing near Lake Superior, the choppings of the heads of Wisconsin postmasters has been suspended.

They have got the divorce business so systematized in Chicago that the holy bond of matrimony can be knocked into smithereens in thirty minutes.

It is a good suggestion that before a monument is erected to General Grant, Ferdinand Ward should be dressed in stripes. Until that is done, Ward will be unworthy of justice.

The Hon. E. B. Washburne has placed in the Washburne memorial library the old stone inkbottle from which ink was taken to sign the articles of Gen. Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Senator Evans seems to be the general choice of republicans for governor of New York. He will receive the support of the magnum and in case of a nomination his election could be safely predicted.

A dismissed bank officer in Canada has committed suicide. The seven bank officials now serving terms in the penitentiary at Trenton, New Jersey, should have thought of this scheme to evade the law.

St. Paul and Minneapolis are fighting over the question of canoes, in the returns the latter leading the former. Both cities seem to have very enterprising canoers.

They were able to stretch a good many points.

The fact the republican committee of New York placed the convention two days in advance of the democratic convention, shows that they are not afraid to lead off in the coming fight. That kind of courage shows confidence.

The story comes from Pennsylvania, and of course it is a truism, that recently five thieves in that state, after ransacking a country house, held a formal meeting in the parlor and voted on the question whether the owner of the house and his wife should be whipped or not. The result was 3 to 2 against the whipping. Resolutions of sympathy were put in writing and left on the table where the robbed couple found them next morning.

The euphonious name of Brown is in luck. There is now in the bank of England a deposit amounting to two million dollars. It was put there nearly one hundred years ago, and now takes up too much room. The heirs of the depositors, it is said, live in America, and bank has sent detectives to this country to find, if possible, their rightful heirs to the two millions. It is said to say that if a detective is after the right Brown, he will never get him. The Browns of the United States who number about 320,000, have an important duty to perform.

The chief of the national bureau of statistics reports the total values of exports of domestic cattle and hogs, and of beef and pork products as follows: July, 1885, $8,430,579; July, 1884, $10,275,049; month ended July 31, 1885, $85,904,369; same time, 1884, $85,411,766; beef and pork products for nine months ended July 31, 1885, $67,706,002; 1884, $65,570,360; dairy products for three months ended July 31, 1885, $4,031,716; 1884, $5,264,560. The total value of the exports was as follows: July 31, 1885, $8,714,805; July, 1884, $12,371,754; seven months ended July 31, 1884, $80,546,131.

A singular ecclesiastical controversy is now going on at Madison. Professor J. H. Carpenter, of Madison, Hon. Elihu Olmsted, of Fond du Lac and Mr. G. R. Willett, of Deconet, Iowa, compose a board of arbitration now in session at the capitol, to determine who is the president of the eastern district of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran church, which embraces the state of Wisconsin and a few congregations in some of the adjacent states. P. A. Kasmussen, of Lisbon, Ill., is the contestant for the seat, his opponent being J. B. Frieh, of LaCrosse, who is now occupying the presidency. Each side is represented by a committee of three.

The partisan declaration of First Assistant Postmaster General Sherman, of his intention to remove all the republican fourth-class postmasters and put democrats in their places will tend to make the office popular with the democratic convention now being held to elect the process of pointing with alarm on the part of the republican gatherings. As no assurance that senators and representatives are to be permitted to devote their appointments, it is safe to assume that the congress will begin in earnest as soon as the congress meets. In any event Mr. Stevenson will have his hands full for the next two years, which period must elapse before the present incumbents will all be turned out.

The New York Evening Post, a magnum paper, has this to say of John Sherman: "The elevation of the national credit is not Mr. Sherman's sole claim to public confidence. He has shown remarkable fertility of resource in all the emergencies of politics during the past quarter of a century. He is a partisan of the unflinching type, but with a statesman's keen discernment and high usefulness. He is one of the class of tried and proved men of ability and leaders of parties whom any state ought to be proud to keep as her representative in the highest councils of the nation. We shall be surprised if the people of Ohio do not find means, even in the existing tangled, to return him to the senate."

Great pressure, it is said, has been brought to bear upon Secretary of War Endicott to induce him to modify or suspend or recall his order sending back officers to their regiments after they have been absent more than four years. But assurance is given that no exceptions will be made in spite of the petitions of men and the tears of women. If Secretary Endicott can succeed in the task he has set himself he will do something no predecessor has been able to accomplish. The matter has been discussed from time to time, and several efforts have been made to drive the drones out, but society women, petitions and tears have generally won, and the bones of Washington have been reinforced by the shirking soldiers.

To show how genuine civil service principles have been respected in Boston the Gazette of that city says that among the worthy clerks at the city hall who have performed years of honorable service, there are three deserving special mention. Mr. Charles G. Reynolds, of the city treasurer's office, at the ripe age of 83 years, is still on duty. Mr. Reynolds entered the service of the city in 1841, and is the first and only bookkeeper the city has ever had. Mr. Edward Barry entered the auditor's office in 1845, and has continued in the same office until now. At the age of 77 years, he is still quite hale and hearty. Mr. Francis V. Bullfinch, of the collector's office, entered the service of the city in 1857, and at the age of 83 years feels as young as he ever did. All of these gentlemen perform each day their routine of labor, and with good health give promise of many years of usefulness.

At the beginning of the week Mr. Edgar L. Wakeman, of Chicago, made the surprising announcement that The Current had suspended publication. The cause was financial embarrassment. Mr. Wakeman had endorsed some paper for a relative, and was compelled to pay $8,000 on this account. Every dollar he had in the world was invested in The Current. It was fairly prosperous; but the $8,000 which should have gone to The Current expense account, went to pay another person's obligation. Mr. Wakeman tried to borrow money, but the fact that he was embarrassed, and seemingly on the down-hill grade made towards his friends and they did not have the courage to invest money in an extremely doubtful enterprise. Mr. Wakeman suddenly left Chicago and for several days his absence was a mystery. His mind, it seems, was badly affected by his financial troubles, and he wandered to Louisville. While this cloud was hanging over Wakeman and The Current, his office assistants went to work to get out another issue of the journal, and kind friends furnished the money necessary to do the work, and there is hope that The Current may be published for some time to come.

The republican state committee of New York did a wise thing in adopting a resolution throwing the door wide open, that the independents may re-enter the republican party and participate in the work of the convention. Money will catch more flies than vinegar, and soft words fly spoken will turn away wrath and win a man's friendship. So the republican state committee adopted a resolution which was pretty well honored, and more than likely the magnum will be induced to take part in the state convention. When the committee met there was some talk of candidates, but nothing was done which would indicate what the committee wanted to do. It is probable they do not know themselves what they want to do, and still more probable that they have grave doubts whether they can do just what they want to when the time comes. In no state in the union are the republican voters so hard to be led by leaders and bosses as in New York and it is probable that the convention will select the candidates itself. This is the only way to do. The republicans of New York are jealous of their rights. They will work without grumbling when a man above suspicion and above machine influences put in nomination; but they seem to kick vigorously when an objectionable candidate is nominated. The republican party of New York contains many able and excellent men, either one of whom would make a strong candidate, and if elected, a good governor. The convention should draw out its strongest and best men, and with a united party there would be favorable prospects for a republican victory.

IRELAND'S OPPORTUNITY.

A Plea for Parnell by a Roman Catholic Priest.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 25.—Mr. McClellan addressed the Irish National League in this city Thursday night. In the course of his speech he said that a radical revolution is now taking place in Ireland; that both Whigs and Tories are contending for the vote of Ireland, and that that condition of affairs afforded the Irish an opportunity rarely given to secure freedom for Ireland. He said that the Irish people were now supported by the people and hierarchy, and that the time for us to come forward with Irish hearts to sustain the cause of Ireland, and I would recommend all to come forth and lend their aid in helping the parliamentary candidates. They can only exist and succeed if we go to their help. Our help is needed, Parnell said, and he is deserving of it. With all our hopes of long years now coming to a successful issue, we should aid them to the fullest limit of our power.

The mission was warmly applauded. A set of resolutions were then adopted pledging the Baltimore branch of the league to support the parliamentary party candidates of Parnell by every moral and material aid in the contest to be waged against landlordism at the coming elections in November.

NORTH CAROLINA CHRISTIANITY.

A Difference in Religious Opinion Settled in a Summary Style.

SHREVEPORT, N. C., Aug. 25.—At Piney Hill, Rutherford county, the Northern Methodist colored camp-meeting was attacked by the Zion Methodist crowd opened fire upon the Northern Methodists, and the latter-preacher and all-fell. The invaders then collected the effects of the vanquished, piled them up and applied the match and made a bonfire of them. During the whole seven negroes were wounded by bullets—one probably fatally.

The Sullivan-McCaffrey Fight.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—In Chester park Thursday morning the platform was erected upon which the contest between Sullivan and McCaffrey will take place. Sullivan is located in the center of the track, equidistant from the grand and public stands. Time will be called at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Aug. 30, and the contest will be fought under the Marquis of Queensberry rules. Sullivan reached the city at 8:30 Thursday afternoon, arriving at the Grand Central depot, where a number of personal friends and a large crowd had gathered to welcome him. Sullivan remained at the "Beverly" sticking close to his training. He is exuberant in spirits, and views the approaching contest with confidence. The first action towards an endeavor to prevent the contest was taken by Sullivan on Wednesday night, when, at a meeting of the Law and Order league a lawyer was employed and instructed to take measures to stop it.

What Are They There For?

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Quite a large number of railway magistrates are in town. They have been arriving in ones and twos for the past few days. Among them are William H. Vanderbilt, Fred H. Gould, Addison McCann, Chauncey M. Depew, President Roberts (of the Pennsylvania company), President Keop (of the Northern company), and many others. What are they here for? It is learned, but it is understood they will hold a conference, Saturday afternoon, at the United States hotel. Mr. Depew was asked if this gathering was for the purpose of discussing the Pennsylvania railroad, and he replied: "I will say nothing at present." Several others were asked the same question but would give no information. It was learned that they met Friday, but immediately dispersed last Saturday.

Waiting for a Decision.

New York, Aug. 25.—The executive board of the Knights of Labor here, as yet, heard nothing from General Manager Talmage. The board of knights are confident that their mission will be successful. "I think," said General Master Workman Powderly, "that the railroad officials will find it to their interest to accede to our demands." Delegate McCann said: "I have just received a dispatch from the west which indicates that the Welsh people mean to force us into a strike or, at least, to strike us back. They will have the largest strike on hand that America has ever seen."

More Reduction of Expenses.

WASHINGTON CITY, Aug. 25.—Mr. Graves, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing, has been reducing the salaries of that bureau so as to still further lessen expenses. It was found that the salaries of the workmen engaged upon the revenue stamps, by reason of the ease of their work, could make more money than the men engaged on first-class work, and the rates on second-class work will be reduced so as to properly adjust the comparative rates of compensation.

Underground Railway Consolidation.

New York, Aug. 25.—The various companies have charters to build underground railroads in this city are trying to consolidate in order to build a single road. A circular has been issued by the Western Union Telegraph company, proposing to form a syndicate to control the charters of the New York Underground Railway company and the Broadway Underground Railroad company.

A Palpable Invention.

New York, Aug. 25.—The rumor published here Wednesday that Postmaster General Vilas was to resign and accept the Austrian ministry, and that Postmaster Pearson was to become postmaster general, has been denounced by Postmaster Pearson as a palpable invention. He said that he had no intention of resigning, and that he was not going to accept the Austrian ministry. He said that he was not going to accept the Austrian ministry, and that he was not going to accept the Austrian ministry.

A Little Thing to Cost Two Lives.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 25.—Henry Burdett, colored, was hanged at London, Ark., Thursday for the murder of Nelson Anderson, colored. The murder was committed last January, the victim being Nelson Anderson, with whom Burdett had quarreled while riding in a wagon the distance of two or three miles.

Maud S. Does a Fast Mile or Two.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 25.—Maud S. was given a race at Narragansett park Thursday and made a mile in the forenoon in 3:14 and in the afternoon in 2:45. McClellan, owned by W. M. Biggley, of Philadelphia, recorded the time for each mile being 2:32, 2:34, 2:34 and 2:50.

BLACK DAMP ABROAD.

THE MINERS' TERROR MAKES ITSELF FELT ON THE SURFACE.

A Pennsylvania Community Alarmed by the Presence of the Noxious Gas—One Family Nearly Smothered—Origin of the Trouble.

LOST CREEK, Pa., Aug. 25.—A strange occurrence at Don's Patch, a mining town adjoining here, demonstrated the fact that miners' families living in close proximity to collieries and numerous mine breaches which dot the mountain sides throughout the coal regions are as liable to mine gas as the miners themselves. From black-damp and obnoxious gases the miners work in the bowels of the earth. Several days ago many of the inhabitants living at the patch were annoyed by a strange odor which produced strange sensations. It was only momentary, however, and little attention was paid to it. A day or two later dogs, cats, and other animals about the neighborhood began dying rapidly. Some attributed this to the water, and no serious alarm was apprehended until Wednesday night, when a miner was awakened by a smothering and choking sensation, similar to that caused by the deadly gas. He hurriedly aroused his wife and three children, all of whom were in a stupor from the effects, the latter being seriously and perhaps fatally ill. An alarm was quickly given, and the family was hurriedly taken to a place of safety. Other families in the immediate vicinity were more or less overcome by the deadly gases and were forced to vacate their houses.

Thursday morning miners instituted a search to where the obnoxious gases came from, and soon discovered it emanating from an old mine breach in the center of the patch along the roadside, as much as a mile from the patch. It has since been a burial place for dead dogs, cats, goats, etc., which altogether gives the place an unwholesome appearance. The black-damp rose up from the great depth of the breach and mingled with the air, where a number of personal friends and a large crowd had gathered to welcome him. Sullivan remained at the "Beverly" sticking close to his training. He is exuberant in spirits, and views the approaching contest with confidence. The first action towards an endeavor to prevent the contest was taken by Sullivan on Wednesday night, when, at a meeting of the Law and Order league a lawyer was employed and instructed to take measures to stop it.

Call and inspect their mammoth stock, and be convinced that they mean business.

—The chilly weather rather interfered with the picnic at Pope's Springs yesterday afternoon. The sewing circle of the Daughters of Rebecca is, however, composed of very jolly people and what they lacked in numbers they made up in fun. It was a first class evening for the dancers, as the weather was cool and bracing, and the ride home by moonlight was also greatly enjoyed.

—Beloit Free Press—While going down a hill at the Baptist picnic yesterday afternoon, Miss Mary Partridge fell, breaking her left leg above the knee. She was made as comfortable as possible by her companions, and brought to the city in a carriage, and taken to P. M. Piore's residence, where Dr. O. A. Dean set the fracture. The limb has been broken four times before and the present injury is regarded as serious.

—Mr. Thomas Graham, of St. Paul, the "Unknown" man who is to wrestle with Greek George this evening at the Riverside rink, arrived in the city this afternoon, and is in excellent condition for the contest.

Mr. Graham is a Scotchman, twenty-eight years of age, weighing about 190 pounds, and is confident that he can down his opponent. At the time Mr. Graham called at the Gazette office this afternoon, he had never met or seen Greek George. Both men possess a handsome physique, and are muscular giants.

—Last evening Sheriff Hanthorn brought to this city Fritz Henkel, of Aton, charged with breaking another young man's leg in a fight at that village. The men were talking about various matters while in the store, and becoming excited, exchanged blows. A scuffle followed and in some manner Fritz's opponent was thrown so as to break his leg. This happened some time ago, but it was not until yesterday that the officers were able to find him. He is now in jail and besides the criminal warrant which was served on him, the injured party has brought suit for personal damages. The defendant is Fred Richter.

Gas Still Going Down.

The Gazette is pleased to call the attention of its readers to a little article in another column headed, "Reduction in the price of gas." It is worthy of note that this action on the part of the New Gas Light company is another cheering evidence of the disposition of that corporation, which has always been shown, to furnish the people of Janesville an excellent quality of gas at as low rate as possible. Away back in 1872, the price of gas was $4.00 per thousand. Gradually as the consumption of gas increased, the price was put down with out a single suggestion from public sentiment. Time after time the rate was decreased until the reduction announced to-day makes the price only $2 per thousand, which gives the people of Janesville the fortunate opportunity of burning gas which is cheaper in price than that of any other city in the west outside of Milwaukee and Chicago.

The old saying that corporations have no souls has been completely shattered by the frequent course of the New Gas Light company of Janesville. As the city advanced in business and population, the consumption of gas was increased, and with this increase came a reduction in the price which was wholly voluntary on the part of the management of the gas company. It is pleasant to note such business principles as these, because they are a public benefit, as the great body of gas consumers in the city are largely and directly helped thereby.

The Wrestling Match.

Greek George and Thomas Graham are both in the city and in fine condition for the wrestling match at the rink this evening. The men are very evenly matched.

—Graham being some ten years younger and about ten pounds heavier than his opponent. While both men are professional wrestlers, this is the first time they have met, and as each man has put up his money, the contest will be genuine. They are muscular giants and this contest being the first ever had in this city, will be quite interesting and no doubt a large number of people will be present to witness the endurance of the men.

The two first bouts will be Greco-Roman; the next two catch-as-catch-can, and the fifth and last to be toehold.

The wrestling will be conducted according to the Greco-Roman rules—two shoulders to touch the head at once to constitute a fall. No fouls allowed. No kicking allowed. No scratching. No holding below the waist. Catch-as-catch-can—Two shoulders and a hip, or two hips and a shoulder to constitute a fall. No scratching, stocking fingers in the eyes, etc., allowed.

A delegation from Beloit will be in the city this evening to witness the wrestling.

Admission 25 cents; reserved seats 35 cents. The door will be open at 7:50; wrestling to commence at 8 o'clock.

Still at the Front.

DIMOCK & HAYNER—Skill represent a greater number of insurance companies than any other agency in Wisconsin. Among them are the oldest, largest and strongest companies in America and England or in the world. They continue to write policies at as low rates as any other responsible companies. All honest losses promptly adjusted and paid. Office first floor next east of Rock County National bank. Houses and lots for sale and money to loan. Special attention given to cyclone, fire and tornado insurance.

How Horses are Ruined.

Many a horse who to-day is crippled and unsound, might have been saved if properly cared for at the right time. The crime or neglect is responsible for more spavins, ringbones, and various other blemishes to which the horse is a victim, than all other causes combined. The incipient stages of disease yield the most readily to treatment, and the first symptoms of weakness in a horse call for attention as loudly as though the dumb animal could speak intelligently and define his sufferings. The same spirit which prompts a man to anticipate the wants of a helpless child, should be exhibited in the attention which is due an intelligent horse. The farmer who can correctly diagnose disease and apply restorative remedies is entitled to the respect and confidence of horse owners and his profession, and work is appreciated by every man who places a proper estimate upon the value of an intelligent horse. The Gazette takes pleasure in saying that Dr. O. Loftus Martin, by many years of experience is recognized as a competent and skillful practitioner, whose reputation extends beyond the limits of the city where he resides. The doctor's stables are never empty, and are frequently crowded with patients. Many of his surgical operations require the same skill demanded of a surgeon, and the success which attends the doctor's treatment is proof that the skill is not lacking. The crowning glory of a long life is only enjoyed as the result of knowledge carefully acquired and wisely directed. Dr. Martin has long since passed this period in the history of his medical practice and merits the reputation which he has acquired.

GOV. RUSK VISITS CAMP.

Complimenting the First Regiment of National Guard.

The Grand Review at Waukesha witnessed by an immense crowd of people—experience of soldiers who are without overcoats.

From the Milwaukee Journal of last Evening: CAMP RUSK, Waukesha, August 27.—Governor's day opened cloudy and damp but not particularly cold or disagreeable. The morning passed, with nothing done but routine drills and marching. The governor, attended by a number of his staff, put in an appearance shortly after dinner, and called upon many of the officers. He paid a high compliment to the commanding officers for the manner in which discipline was preserved, and said that this was one of the best encampments of the Wisconsin National Guard he had yet attended. The grand review by Gov. Rusk will be called about 3 o'clock, when it is expected that a large audience will witness the movements of the men. There are now many visitors in camp, while the Beltsdale spring park is crowded. Arrangements have been made for making the day a complete success in every respect, and the boys all look as bright and neat as new pins.

This evening the citizens of Waukesha will tender the militia a reception and ball at Amusement hall, which has been handsomely decorated for the occasion. A large number of the boys are making preparations to attend.

Assistant Surgeon Byers returned this morning from his home in Monroe, where he was called yesterday. Lieut. Rose, of the Darlington Rifles, has also returned to camp.

A new striped band tent has been erected at the north end of officers' avenue, and is a thing of beauty as well as comfort. The members of the band are now quartered there, but continue to moss with the different companies.

Many prominent people are in camp to-morrow. Among them are two Milwaukee officials, some of the Light Horse squadron, and a few honorary members of the Custer Rifles. Some of the Second regiment are also present.

Yesterday afternoon the female baseball nine played an alleged game on the fair grounds, which was attended by a number of the boys. The game was a great humbug.

At the last evening was witnessed by 400 or 500 people, among the audience being Lieut. Col. Patton, Maj. Wilkie, Surgeon, Maj. Kelly, Capt. Weaver and Col. Brasted, all of the Second regiment. Maj. Rogers, of the Fourth battalion, Sgt. W. A. Brown, of the Fourth, and Capt. Brown, of the Fourth, and Trooper Patton, of the Light Horse squadron.

After dress parade, the Grand avenue was handsomely illuminated with Chinese lanterns. A large crowd attended the concert by the regimental band.

Dr. F. W. Byers, of Monroe, surgeon of the regiment, and lots of the Ninety-sixth Illinois infantry, bears a slight resemblance to the late General Grant. He wears his iron-gray beard close-cropped, and his eyes seem almost to pierce one through.

Blankets of different hues and colors have been pressed into service by some of the boys who have not yet received their overcoats, and of which is startling.

A report was started last evening that Indians had made a raid on the camp, but when it was discovered that some of the men were wrapped in red blankets the sensation was exploded.

Watermelons are being sent to some of the boys of Waukesha friends, but the kindness is misplaced.

HARD WIRE.

How to Prevent the Killing of Stock by Lightning.

The following communication is taken from the Wisconsin Farmer, and will be interesting to all using barb wire fencing:

"A number of losses of stock have occurred in different parts of the state by barb wire becoming overcharged with electricity, and the fluid in its tendency to escape, for want of a better conductor, has passed into the bodies of animals standing near, and thence down their extremities into the ground. The prevention is simple: Plant with every sixth or seventh post a piece of barbed wire, galvanized, about seven feet long. When the fence wires are stretched bring up this short piece and bind it over each strand by driving staples so as to embrace both; let this short conducting wire extend a short distance above the post and you have a good protection as you could ask. The barbed wire fence, with a good number of ground wires, instead of being dangerous, is a protection, for the galvanized wire is a most excellent conductor, and properly grounded you have a system of lightning rods all over the farm.

If anyone doubts that a galvanized barbed wire fence will not absorb electricity on its numerous points, as soon as a thunder storm approaches let him attach an electrometer, or a wire with two little strips of foil attached. The divergence of the foil will indicate the presence of electricity. Or if one chooses to touch the moist finger to one of the points of the barbs, a spark can readily be obtained before the wire becomes charged sufficiently to be dangerous.

The agricultural college could furnish us farmers with some data as to this matter that would be of interest. For myself I use a coil of barbed wire trailed over my buildings, and buried deep in the ground at both ends. A lightning conductor of six or eight strands, coated but one or two dollars, and with its numerous points to attract the electric fluid, there is in my opinion no better conductor for a farmer to use.

The telephone wire, telegraph companies use galvanized wire with numerous hundreds of miles, and put up ground wires on some poles, to conduct any surplus electricity accumulated by their wires during a storm. It occurs to me that a conductor of electricity, that will answer the purpose of these experienced companies to run electricity thousands of miles would answer to conduct a few feet for a farmer—lightning rod men and croakers to the contrary.

L. G. KNIFFER.

Reduction in the Price of Gas.

To Gas Consumers:

On and after October 1, 1885, gas will be billed as usual at $2.50 per thousand feet, but if paid promptly to collector when bills are presented, there will be a discount of 50 cents per thousand instead of 30 cents as heretofore, thus making the net price of gas $2 per thousand.

H. MENZIES.

HOW THEY ARE MADE AND HOW THEY ARE TESTED.

Uniformity of Bore—Essential—Shape and Size of the Bulb—The Graduation of the Scale a Scientific Task.

(Chicago Herald.)

The standard thermometer is a combination of practical science and a requisite workmanship, and for a first-class instrument you have to pay as many dollars as you pay for the ordinary article, and then you must be sure to get it from the right influences that affect the correctness of the thermometer, not to speak of the influences upon the completed instrument by the location of the latter.

For many purposes are required to test a standard instrument. First of all comes the choice of a tube. The tube has to be carefully tested to see whether it is of uniform capacity. In most of the tubes the bore is not uniform, and that on the other, although the difference may be so small that it requires very delicate operations to establish it. Quite frequently in a hundred pounds of the small tubes not more than half a dozen are found which are absolutely true, because from the very nature of the case the bore, being produced by blowing, is in fact nothing else than a portion of a very elongated cone. After the tube has been selected, it is fixed by melting the end of the tube in the flame of an alcohol lamp and blowing in at the other. Then a small quantity of mercury is admitted. By alternately cooling and heating the tube the mercury is forced to the end of the fluid is driven from one end of the tube to the other, and during this process its length is carefully measured in all parts. Should the length alter in various situations the instrument knows that the capacity of the bore is not uniform.

To make the bulb of the required size is solely a matter of practice, as no machinery has been invented to produce it automatically. If the bulb is too large the instrument will register very slow, and if it is too small it will not contain sufficient mercury to register very high temperature. The shape of the bulb is also of importance. The standard bulb is considered best adapted to resist the varying pressure of the atmosphere, while cylindrical bulbs expose larger surfaces of mercury, and are therefore more liable to error.

Small and thin bulbs for small quantities of mercury have been made, but the indicating column must necessarily be so fine as to be unusable for practical purposes. Spiral or corkscrew shaped bulbs were made so as to obtain a greater area of surface exposed to the atmosphere, but these bulbs require such a thickness of glass that the effect sought to be obtained is frequently nullified.

Shape and size of bulb and tube having been determined, the filling is done in a very ingenious manner, and alike for both mercury and alcohol as thermal registers. The tube is inserted in the bulb, and mercury, upon allowing the bulb to cool the atmospheric pressure drives some of the mercury into the tube, and this process is continued until the desired amount of mercury in bulb and tube. It is of the greatest importance that the mercury be free from moisture and air, and to accomplish this the metal is boiled before the filling process. After the filling is completed the tube, and when the explosion of air and moisture is complete the workman dexterously closes the tube by the flame from his blowpipe.

That finishes the purely mechanical part of making the thermometer, but for the graduation of the scale may truly be termed a scientific proceeding, at least so far as graduating a standard instrument is concerned. In the common thermometer the tube is fixed to a scale on which the divisions are marked, while in the standard instrument the scale is engraved in the stem itself in order to insure the greatest possible accuracy of observation. The exact freezing point has to be determined, and this is done by means of melting ice, which has always the same temperature, provided the water from which the ice is congealed is pure. The bulb and the lower portion of the tube are placed in melting ice, and when the mercury is stationary the freezing point is marked. This is a comparatively easy matter, but to determine the boiling point is more difficult, because it varies with the pressure of the atmosphere.

Under certain conditions, combining certain atmospheric pressure at a certain altitude, the boiling point can be ascertained with exactness, but ordinarily, even in good instruments, the boiling point is approximately ascertained by actual experiment. A copper boiler is provided with an open cylinder in the top serving as a vehicle for the water to be boiled. The open cylinder is just long enough to permit the insertion of the thermometer, so that the bulb does not touch the water, and over this cylinder, or rather around it, is placed another to protect the former from the air. As the vapor of the boiling water rises the tube is raised until the mercury just touches the bulb, the mercury just visible above the cylinder. Where the mercury remains stationary the boiling point is obtained and marked off, "subject to corrections for errors."

The space between the freezing and boiling point is next divided into a certain number of equal degrees. Fahrenheit makes 32 degrees the freezing and 212 degrees the boiling point; consequently the intermediate space is divided into 180 degrees. Celsius proposes zero for the freezing point and 100 degrees for the boiling point. Reaumur has the freezing and boiling points separated by 80 instead of 180 degrees. Fahrenheit arrived at his graduation by observations and experiments made in Iceland.

A Rival of the Olive.

(Chicago Herald.)

The plant known as the olive has fair to become a formidable rival of the olive. It is largely grown in India and China. It is an annual, maturing in three months from the time of planting, and two crops are grown yearly. The seeds are very small, ten of them weighing only a grain. They contain 50 per cent. of oil by weight, while the fruit of the olive has but 30 per cent. The imports of sesame seed into France amount to 70,000,000 lbs. per annum. The oil is much used to adulterate olive oil which it closely resembles.

Frozen Cream Cheese.

(Chicago Times.)

A popular restaurant in New Orleans is frozen cream cheese. The cream cheeses are broken up small and beaten fine and smoothed with an egg-beater, the cream belonging to them is also whipped and then added, the whole is sweetened and then frozen. The addition of peaches or figs makes this dessert superior to any ice-cream ever invented.

Desagreed Mining Towns.

(All of the old California mining towns are in a decay or decaying condition. Some of them, most flourishing from 1840 to 1854 or 1856, are blotted from existence and lost to memory, and in the immediate neighborhood where they once stood.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 56 degrees above zero. Cloudy with northeast wind. At 1 o'clock p. m. the register was 72 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with south wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 65 and 70 degrees above zero.

Fall of Fern.

Are these disorders which, beginning with an apparently trivial inactivity of the kidneys or bladder, terminates in Bright's disease, diabetes and cystitis. The first two not only interrupt the functions of the renal organs, but destroy their structure, with a much certainty as tubercular consumption does that of the lungs. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an excellent diuretic, promoting the activity of these organs without over-exercising them, thus averting the deadly malady in which their inactivity is prone to culminate. The removal from the blood of impurities which the kidneys should, but do not, when inactive, is another benefic
